Train times and the audience coach

See page 22 for details of our audience coach to and from Lewes station. Note: train times are for guidance only and subject to change. Please review the latest train timetables at nationalrail.co.uk before your visit.

Note: Broadcast cameras will be present at certain performances. The design of the auditorium specifically allows for camera positions to cause only minimal disruption to members of the audience.

Photography and filming may take place throughout the Festival; notices alerting you to this will be displayed on the screens in the Long Bar.

✨* First night of each opera

👨👩👧👦 Children's tickets available

🎵 Jerwood recitals

* Intervals

We have a long dining interval of 90 minutes during five of our six operas in Festival 2023. The exception is Semele which has two 60-minute intervals.

Running times for each opera are approximate and may change slightly during each performance.

✨ OPENING NIGHT Join us on Friday 19 May and raise a glass to the opening of Festival 2023. With added fanfare before and after the performance, it'll be a first night to remember.

Seating plan & ticket prices

For Festival 2023 we have three price bands, dependent on the day of the week and the repertoire. The numbers 1, 2 and 3 next to the name of the opera in the Performance Schedule (pages 24-27) indicate the price band for each performance. Please refer to the table of prices opposite on page 29. The colours used in the table of prices correlate directly with the colour coding in the seating plan below.

Sightlines and Supertitles

The Glyndebourne auditorium is a horseshoe shape. As a result, some of our seats have a restricted view of varying degrees of the stage; and restricted or no view of the supertitles. Tickets for these seats are priced accordingly. However, if supertitles are important to your enjoyment of the performance, please tell the Box Office when applying for or booking your tickets.

Foyer Circle sides and Circle sides

If applying for tickets during the Members' ballot please give alternative date options as there are only a limited number of these seats available.
